Breast Cancer Awareness Campaign

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month and an opportunity for people to remind ourselves and others of the importance of routine screening for early detection.

Breast cancer is a disease that affects men and women. It's estimated that every 14 seconds, someone around the world is diagnosed with the affliction. This year in the United States, an estimated 310,720 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer making it the most common cancer in American women.

What's become a big part of every community's breast cancer awareness campaign is visual reminders using the color pink. Campaigns share pink ribbons, pink bracelets, pink shirts, and so on, in the month-long effort to catch the disease early so that it can be treated.

Mid-West Family Southwest Michigan, the owner of Moody on the Market, is leading a campaign this month called Real Men Wear Pink (RMWP). The annual campaign is a multimedia awareness drive encouraging people to wear pink on Fridays as a visual reminder for breast cancer screening.

New to the campaign this year is the team from Centsible Heating & Air Conditioning, based in Coloma. Dan Crist is the owner of Centsible and besides being part of the RMWP campaign, he's taking awareness a step further and outfitting his entire crew in pink shirts during the month of October.

"We haven't been part of this campaign before, so we wanted to get involved. Every year we do several different things in the community and this year we wanted to join this and see if we could help," said Crist.

Crist has a team of 10 people with a service territory spanning New Buffalo to South

Molly McFadden
Resource Development Manager,
SMR Chamber

Introducing Molly McFadden, SMRC's Resource Development Manager

My name is Molly McFadden, and I am excited to introduce myself as the new Resource Development Manager for the Southwest Michigan Regional Chamber!

I grew up just over the state line in New Carlisle, Indiana, but I got my first taste of life as a Michigander when I attended Alma College. After graduating with my B.A. in 2020, I found my niche in fundraising and development. Working with nonprofit organizations allowed me to leverage my writing and relationship-building skills to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for charitable causes, including health, immigrant rights, and economic development. Each organization I partnered with further reinforced my belief in the power of communities to come together to solve problems and create sustainable change.

In 2022, my work brought me to Southwest Michigan, and I fell in love with the area instantly. All it took was one drive through Royalton Township on a spring morning to decide that this area would be my forever home.

When I joined the Chamber team in October, I was immediately struck by the impact the organization was making in the community. The Chamber's commitment to strengthening our business community while also improving the quality of life for residents is a mission I'm proud to support. My role will help secure the resources needed to advance key initiatives, like expanding access to childcare, attracting new talent, and empowering local entrepreneurs.

I also have the privilege of supporting Discover Southwest Michigan, a Chamber subsidiary focused on population growth and attracting new residents to the area. As a Michigan transplant myself, this work holds a special place in my heart, as it allows me to help others make their home in a place that has come to mean so much to me.

I'm excited to see what opportunities lie ahead for both the Chamber and our region, and I feel so fortunate to be part of an organization that will help catalyze that change. My goal is to help expand our team's capacity so we can continue to make Southwest Michigan a place where businesses thrive, talent resides, and quality of life is second to none.

Outside of work, I live in Benton Harbor with my husband Joe, our daughter Edith, and our "zoo" of pets—a dog, two cats, and a tortoise. We love exploring the local beaches, restaurants, and all the hidden gems this region has to offer.

Pet Lover

The Pet Corner

A lot of things have happened recently, impacting both people and animals: hurricanes and tornados in the South, wildfires in the West, and now Halloween is quickly approaching. First off, here are some places where you can donate to help those affected by natural disasters. Fleet of Angels, www.fleetofangels.org, is dedicated to helping equines in distress. They have taken semi-trailer loads of food and supplies to aid the owners and their horses living in the paths of Hurricanes Helene and Milton. Recipient of an ASPCA Equine Welfare Award, Fleet of Angels is worthy of our support. Check out their website for more information. Greater Good Charities, www.greatergood.org, aids families and pets and is also a place to offer support to those struggling after these disasters.

Halloween is a fun holiday for us, but it can present problems for our pets. The Humane Society of the United States offers these helpful tips. Keep candy, especially chocolate and anything with the sweetener xylitol (often found in sugarless gum/candy) away from pets. Both can cause serious issues if consumed. The ASPCA poison control hotline is available 24 hours, 888-426-4435, for questions and concerns, but there may be a consultation fee. Better to keep the candy in a secure place and don't let the kids share their loot with the pets. Pumpkin is okay, but rotting pumpkin is not, so no snacking on jack-o'-lanterns. Watch the lit candles that may entice a pet–cats for sure–to knock them over. Decorations should be pet-safe; puppies and kittens are especially curious and may think they're toys. Keep pets inside in the days leading up to and on Halloween, unless you're outside with them. Sadly, not everyone has your pets' best interests at heart, and no one wants their pet to go missing. Some pets enjoy being a part of the festivities and will allow you to dress them up, but make sure the costumes allow them to move freely and relieve themselves. Dogs accompanying kids trick or treating should be on a leash. If your pet prefers to social distance, maybe put them in a quiet room with a TV or radio on to block out the doorbell ringing and prevent them from escaping out an open door. A little pre-planning for Halloween is better than searching for a lost pet.

Berrien County Animal Control holds their Trunk or Treat event on Saturday, October 26, 9:30 a.m. to noon. Bring the kids in costume, but please leave pets at home. The shelter at 1400 S. Euclid in Benton Harbor is full up with many wonderful dogs and cats. They will gladly accept donations that day of wet and dry kitten food, skin and coat specialty dog food, puppy kibble, dog treats and peanut butter, leashes and collars (used are fine), and Dawn dish soap. Their Amazon Wishlist link is www.amazon.com/hz/wishlist/ls/26V48KE9GYQ8Q, but they are happy to accept whatever you'd like to donate.

October is Adopt a Shelter Dog month. If you're looking to add to the family with a furry canine friend, give the shelters a call. They would love to have you visit the many wonderful dogs available for adoption.

Kittens at the Café continues Sundays from 1-3 p.m. at the Mason Jar Café in Benton Harbor. If kitties are more your style, they will be happy to meet and greet you.

Not Doing but Done

[Jesus] said to them "Let the children come to me; do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. Truly, I tell you, anyone who will not receive the kingdom of God like a child will never enter it." ~ Mark 10:14,15

There are some things children shouldn't do because they just are too young and too little. Ask a young child to bake a cake from scratch, and you are probably in for a mess and not a cake. Ask a child to clean out the gutters, and there is bound to be an accident. Have a child put on the spare tire and I am willing to bet he won't even get a single lug nut off, and you will be on the side of the road for a long time.

However, there are some things young children can be really good at, even babies. A young child can cry out in need. A young child can receive love. A young child can be cared for and looked after. Young children are not very good at doing, but they are good at receiving.

It is for these reasons Jesus invites the young children to him without hindrance. Even more than just inviting them, Jesus holds them up as models to everyone. It is not because they can do much but because they need much. "Everyone who does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it." With this stern yet beautiful invitation, Jesus invites us to lay down our greatest accomplishments and simply trust in him. Through trust, we receive the many blessings offered to us in the kingdom of God.

It is this act of simply receiving gifts that we get worse at as we get older. As we gain abilities, we want to show them off. We want to do more and show that we deserve things. However, our salvation is never something we can do; it must be done for us. As a child cries out and simply receives, may we cry out to God and receive his mercy, love, and forgiveness.

Prayer: Heavenly Father, give me a child-like faith that I would not work for my salvation but receive it only as a gift. Amen.

Audiologist

A New Way to Scan Your Ears

We are super excited to announce that our office now offers the newest technology in 3D digital ear scanning- Otoscan. Traditional earmolds are still considered a standard procedure at audiologist visits. First, an audiologist fills the inside of your ear with a playdough-like material and waits for it to harden. After a few minutes, they must remove the mold, which may feel harsh to sensitive skin. If your ear canal turns out to be complex, with its natural curves, the hardened impression might prove tricky to remove or even get stuck altogether. Finally, while the molding gets pulled out, it might inadvertently change its shape, disfiguring your ear impression.

Otoscan is a 3D digital ear scanning solution that enables more efficient, precise, and personalized care. It produces a precise image that remains 100% true to the natural shape of the ear canal. The imaging accounts for every nook and cranny, allowing for the best fit of your hearing device

The process is also noninvasive. The Otoscan system consists of a headphones-like headband and a wand inserted into the ear. The tool is used by an audiologist in a manner that prevents poking, scraping, and irritating the skin. The process is painless and much more comfortable than filling your ear canal with silicone. The device works within minutes and provides the needed dimensions for a clear 3D image of the ear canal.

You are also able to see everything that is going on. This new scanning process allows us to illustrate an explanation of how the ear functions and the specific factors affecting hearing. The wait time for your hearing aids is also significantly shorter. The Otoscan system allows specialists to send the 3D image immediately after the exam. That is a lot of amazing benefits!

If you are ready to try this state-of-the-art technology and get properly fit hearing devices, hearing protection, or earmolds, contact our office today at (888) 675-9480.

The Web-ster's Wacky Word World

It's not that I'm "far gone," but I have gone so far that this space is still in "Time Capsule" mode! Take this capsule before bed and you'll sleep like a B-A-B-E.

I'm gettin' my plans together for a major par-TAY on October 16th! I plan to enter several Random Houses, break out my Funk and Wagnall it around! We're gonna have a Merriam old time!

You guessed it – it's Dictionary Day once again!

"Dictionary Day" is celebrated every October 16th because that's the day the famous American dictionary guy Noah Webster was born. And this year's Dictionary Day is extra special, because 2016 is also the 210th anniversary of the first dictionary created in America, by the Web-ster himself, of course. That 1806 book succeeded in making bold new rules for lexicography (the study of lexicons), for etymology (the study of etyms) and, most of all, for spelling.

See, Webster was on a mission to rid our English of English. That is, to make uniquely American spellings of words those hoity-toity Brits had brung over. For example, he dropped one of the "l's" in "traveller" ("What the 'l'"? said the Brits). He made words like "centre" read "center" (What nreve!" wailed the Brits). He even booted the "u" out of words like "colour" and "honour" ("The horrour!" cried the Brits).

Of course, not all of Webster's new-fangled language ideas stuck. Some spellings that never caught on included "iz," "yeer," "tung," and "wimmen." (He actually published these.)

When I look through newly-published dictionaries, I always look for the word that I and my high school buddies Don Hale and Dave Clark tried to invent: "Spunt." For two years, we randomly planted "spunt" on bulletin boards, chalkboards, mimeographed tests, and other public places throughout the school. We intentionally gave it no meaning or definition – kind of like my weekly columns. We wanted to see what meaning it might evolve on its own. Since it never caught on, I think it's safe to say that "spunt" means "nothing."

Still, there are lots of words that, despite the best efforts of politicians, do mean something. And on the pages of a dictionary, they're sometimes joined in eye-catching ways.

For example, here are actual word pairs found in my Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (which is now 49 years old, so ain't so new anymore). These are from the top corners of the dictionary pages, where the first and last words found on that page are placed together:

Let's start with these, featuring words from entirely different points on the mood spectrum: "Purr-Pustulant; "Pit Saw-Placid"; "Lemony-Leprosy"; "Grimy-Groomer."

Whereas these couplets occupy the same exact point on the mood spectrum: "Scour-Scratchy"; "Slug-Smack"; "Waste-Water Closet."

This one made me think of a stupid mouse that used to run around a house I lived in and persistently evaded capture: "Robustious-Rodent."

If you're overpowered by stinky cheese, you may have "Limburger-Limpness."

A good deed that you wind up regretting: "Fathead-Favor."

A padded bra? Or maybe Thanksgiving dinner: "Figure-Filler."

Illustrated by a picture of me: "Ideal-Idiot."

These mean spunt, but they just sound funny: "Nonprofit-Nootkas"; "Fruit-Fug"; "Busty-Buttinsky"; "Booger-Boot."

When you spill the wine: "Bungle-Burgundy."

What this column probably did to you, dear reader (sorry!): "Insult-Intelligent."

Haven, so he bought the entire staff pink shirts and hats so they could help raise awareness across Southwest Michigan. Now, every Friday, the service personnel wear pink to do their part.

"Breast cancer has become more and more mainstream. People are more aware of it than ever before. I know quite a few people that have had it -- some good friends of mine. Nobody in my family, thank God, but some good friends have gone through a horrible time and have survived. Some haven't."

The team at Centsible takes part in other community causes. In February, they spontaneously decided to show appreciation to first responders by treating them to coffee on Valentine's Day. They've also teamed up with SERVPRO of Berrien County and local fire departments to donate smoke detectors to communities.

Crist said for breast cancer awareness, the cause hits closer to home.

"I used to own a restaurant in the 90s. One of the women that worked for me, she was in the kitchen, 27-years old, and she died from breast cancer. She had four kids, and it was heartbreaking, you know, the family going through that, and that was just horrible," said Crist.

The message Crist hopes to share is simple.

"You really need to get out there and get checked. And now they're pushing for men to do it, too."

9/11 Hero Climb organizers complete 2024 donation

Organizers of the annual 9/11 Hero Climb at Dickinson Stadium in St. Joseph say last month's event was a success, and they've now donated the proceeds to three local fire stations.

More than 250 community members and emergency responders showed support by climbing 2,071 stadium stairs in remembrance of those lost in the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks and the heroic actions of first responders.

Event sponsor and organizer, BOSS Service's Jeff Street said $8,000 was raised.

"We are grateful to Honor Credit Union for partnering with us to co-present the Hero Climb, to all the local businesses who sponsored the event, those who participated, and those who donated. Being able to watch this event grow and seeing our community turn out to help those who risk their lives for us is humbling and heart-warming. Also, being able to see the first responders get the equipment they need, to help save lives, fills our hearts here at BOSS Services and the BOSS Services Foundation. It truly shows the impact of how Berrien County pulls together as a community."

On Wednesday morning September 11 at 8:46 a.m., community members and emergency responders gathered at the St. Joseph High School stadium and climbed 2,071 stadium stairs in remembrance of NYC first responders who sacrificed their lives on 9/11/2001. Those who could not make the climb showed their support by walking a mile, or running a 5k, on the track.

All the proceeds raised from the 9/11 Hero Climb, 1-Mile Walk and 5K were donated to local Berrien County fire departments to buy critical life-saving gear and equipment. The departments that benefited this year include the City of Benton Harbor Public Safety which received funds for rescue struts. The department has needed this equipment numerous times throughout the past year and has had to improvise during rescue operations.

The second recipient was Pipestone/Berrien Townships, Eau Claire who received help purchasing a hydrant adaptor and windshield removal kit. These items allow them to connect older and newer hydrant systems. The windshield saw will allow first responders to get to a patient in a motor vehicle accident quicker.

Benton Charter Township received funding to upgrade their 15-year-old 'Jaws of Life'. This upgrade allows them to cut the high strength material that is being used in modern vehicles, reducing delayed response times and helping to effectively and safely disentangle victims from inside crashed vehicles.

To learn more about the 9/11 Hero Climb or how you can be a part of next year's event contact BOSS Services Owner Jeff Street at (269) 519-9952 or by email at jeff.street@bosshvac.com.

Dave Says

Seeing Things in a Different Way

Dear Dave,

My husband is really excited after reading your books, and now he's determined to start living on a budget. I love seeing this kind of passion and determination in him, but I'm not sure about going all-in on everything it would take to make this happen. I guess the truth is there are just some things I don't want to give up. Do you have any advice for getting motivated?

Allison

Dear Allison,

I get what you're saying. Sometimes, when you first begin working hard to gain control of your money and get out of debt, it can seem like all the fun goes out of life. It takes a lot of hard work and discipline to change any habit.

I know budgeting sounds intimidating, but goals and dreams have a better chance of coming true if you have a written game plan. Just give it a try. Sit down with your husband at the beginning of each month and do a written budget together. Give every dollar a name on paper before you spend anything. It's not medieval torture, and it's not just a math exercise. It's a chance for you both to have input on what you want to accomplish and how to make it happen.

When two are married they become "as one." And that's how all decisions should be made from that point forward. Some fantastic sharing is going to happen when you bring these thoughts and ideas out in the open.

Once you start doing a budget, you'll begin to see things in a whole new way. You'll see where you can cut back, where you can save and how you can make things happen that may have seemed impossible before. Sure, you may have to give up a few little things for a short while. But when you see how quickly you can make a lot of really cool stuff happen in your lives, I think you'll be excited by the possibilities!

— Dave
